First & Last Impressions

Last Impression

This is what guests carry home and tell others about. A gracious departure transforms a great night into a great story.

The 10 - 5 - 3 Rule

The Standard of Acknowledgement

Every Guest, Every Interaction

10 FT

Eye Contact + Smile

At 10ft, acknowledge every guest with eye contact and a smile. This nonverbal signal communicates that the guest is seen, welcome, and you are approachable.

5 FT

Verbal Greeting

“Welcome!” – “Enjoy the game/concert!” – The greeting should be genuine. Never wait for the guest to speak first, you should make the connection.

3 FT

Full Engagement

Within 3ft or when a guest stops near you, engage fully. Introduce yourself, ask how you can help, and own the interaction. Never leave a guest without a solution.

Guest Interaction Process

- Make Eye Contact
 - Be the first to make a connection, look up and lock eyes before the guest reaches you.
- Smile
 - A warm smile tells the guest they are welcome before a single name is spoken
- Greeting
 - Be the first word with an energetic greeting, set the tone for the night
- Provide Information
 - Answer questions with your knowledge. Know your venue, role, and resources available
- Make a Connection
 - “I love that jersey” or “I am so excited for tonights game”. Find a real connection
- Farewell
 - Close with an energetic bye like “Let’s Go Panthers!”, the last word leaves an impression

Guestology

The science of studying guest behaviors, needs, and expectations in a service environment and catering to them.

Lost-Looking Guest

Cue: Scanning surroundings, stopping, checking phone a lot

Approach with “Can I point you somewhere?” or “Can I help you find something?” Offer help before they wander further and before they even ask for help.

First-Timers

Cue: Wide eyes, asking basic questions, exclamations of amazement

Approach the guest and welcome them, ask if it is their first time here, if they say yes provide a quick overview of section numbers, restrooms, concessions, etc.

Unhappy Guest

Cue: Crossed arms and frustrated expression

Approach guest and gently check in by asking “Is everything going okay tonight?” Try to catch potential problems before they escalate.

Service Recovery - The HEART Framework

H

HEAR

Listen without interruption. Let the guest finish. Let them feel heard.

E

EMPATHIZE

“I completely understand, that is not the experience we want for you.”

APOLOGIZE

Offer a sincere, specific apology on behalf of the organization.
No defensiveness.

RESOLVE

Take action immediately. Escalate if needed but stay with the guest until the issue is resolved.

T

THANK

Thank the guest for their feedback. Close with warmth and energy.

A guest whose complaint is handled exceptionally well becomes MORE loyal than a guest who never had a complaint at all.

Universal Guest Service Standards

Wear your complete Panthers uniform to every shift: shirt, credentials, and any required gear

Every guest should get a proper welcome:
“Welcome to Amerant Bank Arena”

Every guest should get a proper goodbye:
“Thank you for coming!”

Explain screening and security features fully when necessary

Use calm, de-escalating language in every challenging situation

Anticipate guest needs, approach them when you notice something, don't wait for them to approach you

Know the venue inside and out. Be an expert on every location, policy, and service.

Resolve every issue to completion, help guest from beginning to end

Guest safety always comes first, a guest who feels unsafe cannot have a great experience

Bring maximum energy to every shift, your attitude is contagious
